

CHARIDICE nominated for “TOP 10 Spielzeug 2025”

The dice game CHARIDICE by Jürgen Adams has been nominated by the BVS – the German Association of Toy Retailers – for their prestigious “TOP 10 Spielzeug 2025” award. Published by Nürnberger-Spielkarten-Verlag (NSV), CHARIDICE is one of 46 products selected for this renowned recommendation list. The BVS selection reflects the opinions of leading toy retailers on which toys are expected to stand out and become bestsellers this year.

The shortlist with the ten winners will be announced in November 2025 during the annual press conference of the toy industry. The NSV team appreciates the nomination very much and is hopeful that CHARIDICE will secure a spot among the top ten.

A game where luck meets generosity

CHARIDICE is easy to learn and quick to play. After seven rounds, the player with the most points wins. But it's not just about rolling high numbers. Strategic combinations are key. Players can earn lucrative bonus points by either collecting as many dice of one colour as possible or the same number in as many colours as possible. The more dice involved in a combination, the higher the bonus.

What truly sets CHARIDICE apart is what happens to the unused dice. Instead of being discarded, their points are gifted to the next player. Those who are most generous can convert this act of kindness into a charity bonus at the end of the game. This is keeping the outcome exciting until the very last moment.

With a playtime of around 20 minutes, CHARIDICE offers fast-paced fun for 2-4 players. Its compact design and sustainably produced materials also impressed the BVS jury.

A trusted label for outstanding new releases

Since 2003, the “TOP 10 Spielzeug” list has been the go-to ranking for toys and leisure products in Germany. The selection is made by the BVS in collaboration with a panel of industry experts.
